

Alex Marín Quesada

Systems Engineering Student

ABOUT ME

I'm a fourth-year Systems Engineering student at the National University of Costa Rica, specializing in IT applications. Passionate about technology, I enjoy solving complex problems and continuously expanding my knowledge.

I have a strong foundation in systems engineering, database management, and software development methodologies. I also thrive in team environments, valuing collaboration and effective communication. With a problem-solving mindset and technical skills, I'm eager to contribute to innovative projects that make an impact.
